An independent creative healthcare communications agency is expanding and seeking ambitious and patient-focused communication professionals to join their team. Embracing remote and flexible working, you can be based anywhere in the UK without compromising communication, collaboration, or team relationships. They thrive on the challenges their diverse clients present, utilising innovative thinking and blending creative strategy to produce award-winning work! From big pharma to biotechs, health charities to the public sector, they tackle UK and global projects with passion and expertise. If you're seeking a role that allows you to work across integrated communication campaigns, places patients at the heart of everything you do, and contributes to the continued growth of the agency, then keep on reading!

What you will be doing: Working closely with clients on briefs and developing communication programmes. Generating ideas and strategies based on insights across various channels. Building strong client relationships, offering consultative approaches to briefs, and advising on strategies. Taking ownership of projects from brief to delivery across earned, paid, and owned channels.

About you: Ambitious, driven, and thrive in autonomous project environments. Enjoy the fast-paced agency environment and are comfortable with challenges. Background in Communications, Omni channel, or creative Medcomms. Experience working with pharmaceutical clients. Excellent communicator.
