Overview

Design Engineer Based in Livingston We know Engineers love detail, live for the facts and figures, whilst striving for perfection (who doesn't I hear you ask?) But do they enjoy searching for data, being a detective if you will? If you are an inquisitive and intrigued Engineer who enjoys exploring drawings and data...We have the perfect Design Engineer role for you, here in Livingston! The Design Engineer position is ideal if you like working with colleagues from all different backgrounds and cultures, as it will form part of a multicultural team across Europe! You will have the opportunity to meet face to face throughout the year... and maybe even the chance to explore another country! There are plenty of fun aspects to being a Design Engineer. No working day is the same, there is so much variation! You can also be creative and put your problem-solving skills to task by working with our Operations team to continuously drive improvements and the quality of our products. This is essential to the business as one of our core values is Relentless Continuous Improvement (RCI). Alongside any RCI focussed work, you are likely to be involved in several different projects from the presale enquiries to working on the designs of the products and investigating and responding to inquiries from customers and suppliers.
