Design Systems QA | 2 month contract + possible extensions | Inside IR35 | Remote working

Are you a meticulous QA professional with a keen eye for detail and a passion for ensuring design system integrity? Join us as a Freelance Design Systems QA Tester and play a vital role in shaping the user experience of our web component library and design system portal.

Key Responsibilities: Conduct thorough QA testing on web components across all states, browsers, and configurations to ensure consistency and functionality. Identify and document bugs, inconsistencies, and deviations from design token specifications, providing clear and actionable feedback to the development team. Collaborate closely with designers and developers to maintain design system integrity and adherence to brand guidelines. Develop and execute test cases and scenarios to validate the performance, responsiveness, and accessibility of web components. Contribute to the improvement of QA processes and methodologies to enhance efficiency and effectiveness in maintaining design system standards.

Requirements: Proven experience in QA testing, specifically focused on web components and design systems. Expertise in testing web components across various states, browsers, and configurations. Exceptional attention to detail and analytical skills to identify and troubleshoot issues effectively. Strong communication skills and the ability to collaborate effectively with cross-functional teams in a remote environment.

Preferred Qualifications: Familiarity with design token methodologies and their implementation in web component libraries. Experience with automated testing tools and frameworks for design systems. Ideally you will be familiar with Tokens Studio, but not essential
