Company: Balfour Beatty

Location: United Kingdom

Category: other-general

About the role

Balfour Beatty has an exciting opportunity for an experienced Environmental Sustainability Manager to join our Power Transmission and Distribution team, working on the Eastern Green Link 2 project.

This is the perfect opportunity for an established Environmental Sustainability Manager to continue to develop their career with an established project delivery team.

We offer the opportunity for a mix of part-time working from home however the role will largely be project based site work and at our main project compound near Hull.

The BBPTD Environmental Sustainability Team has a wide background of team players, with a project hands-on approach, who support each other and their projects on environment and sustainability matters to look after the local environment and aid project delivery.

What you'll be doing

This role will see you leading the ES Function on the project and report into the Head of Sustainability and have a dotted line into the Project Director.

You and your team will support operational teams, project engineers and managers on aspects of sustainability and environmental management and best-practice, developing environmental documentation, meeting legal and company standards. You will work with your ES Team to help ensure the environmental requirements of Clients and Regulators are complied with, support on site mitigation, and engage with local stakeholders and members of the public. You will also help us look after the sensitive environmental settings in which we work as well as progressing sustainability delivery for Balfour Beatty and for our clients. The lookahead for projects in England and Wales is very strong with modernisation, refurbishment and newbuild projects planned over the coming decades as part of the wider UK programme to bring more and reinforce capability in supporting renewable generation, transmission and distribution. This project will play a huge part in realising our clients vision and contribute significantly to the UKs net zero aspirations.

Here at Balfour Beatty we are working hard to support the government's ambitions to deliver low-carbon energy across the UK and beyond. We are on our way to leading every market we are in and we have the strategy and momentum to get there. If you are looking for a career in Power, working within BBPTD on our projects will give you experience and exciting challenges that no other industry can offer. Your main responsibilities include; Provide advice, support and direction to your operational project management team to enable them to deliver environmentally compliant projects and sustainable opportunities in line with environmental legislation, BB procedures and client requirements and the building new futures strategy

Manage a team of ES Advisors, Projects Ecologists and Project Archaeologists to ensure the successful delivery of a range of ES deliverables including discharge of planning conditions, completion of all archaeological work, implementation of ecological mitigations and delivery of client sustainability requirements

Provide high level review of ES content in construction methodologies, risk registers, price build ups, programmes and other project specific deliverables

Report on good practices and investigate and report on environmental incidents to the project teams and the client with the support of your colleagues

Lead and manage incident investigations and non-conformances

Take part in lessons learnt exercises and consider areas for improvements

Work with the Head of Sustainability to promote Zero Harm objectives and Building New Futures strategies and drive continuous improvement of performance

Be the main point of contact for regulators and other environmental stakeholders on the project, proactively engaging with them over areas of concern or difficulty

Who we're looking for

The following qualities/experience are essential:

A relevant degree or equivalent in an environmental discipline

Thorough working knowledge of current environmental legislation

Strong working knowledge of the construction sector, preferably Utilities

Experience in deciphering technical documents and translating into operational terms

Strong background in assessing environmental hazards and understanding of the mechanisms of how to mitigate
