Our partner manage over £30bn of property across the UK providing a range of services across a range of sectors. Think any building from retail to industrial and everything in between. This is an exciting FTC, offering the opportunity to join an established and high level finance function.

It would be ideal if you've done this job before. That is likely to mean you've been called a financial controller, but you may also have been referred to a senior management accountant too.

You'll be really, really comfortable with preparing management accounts, ensuring cash flow and working with external agencies for statutory audit purposes.

The best candidates will have completed either CIMA or ACCA qualifications, and can show they have been using those skills and knowledge day to day for at least a couple of years.

With £30bn to manage you'll be able to work with large datasets utilising different finance packages and excel. What will really set you out is that commercial knowledge and the ability to interrogate that data.

In return, they are offering upto £70k per annum, along with 25 days leave plus bank holidays and other benefits- would 12 months in this role supercharge your career?
