Description

Join Our Team: Lead Estimator Opportunity

Are you an accomplished professional in the field of construction estimation, eager to make a substantial impact with your expertise? Carey Group, a renowned leader in the construction industry, is seeking a talented Lead Estimator to join our team. Reporting directly to the Preconstruction Director, this role is pivotal in driving our success through meticulous estimation, mentorship, and collaboration.

Role Overview:

As Lead Estimator, you will be instrumental in compiling and reviewing estimates, fostering the growth and development of our team members, and contributing to the achievement of our regional and strategic goals. Working closely with our collaborative work-winning team, you'll play a vital role in shaping the future success of Carey Group.

Person Specification – Skills, Experience & Attributes:

Technical Skills and Experience:

Minimum of 5 years' experience in various project types, including bulk earthworks, groundworks, substructure, paving, roadworks, drainage, and RC Frames.

Proven track record as a specialist subcontractor Estimator on multimillion-pound projects involving sub and super-structure, hard & soft landscaping, enabling, and infrastructure works.

Familiarity with applicable methods of measurement such as SMM7, CESMM, NRM2.

Proficiency in electronic measuring tools such as Bluebeam, CADmeasure, or similar.

Strong proficiency in Microsoft Office suite.

Preferred qualifications include a degree in Civil Engineering, Quantity Surveying, or Construction Management.

Experience with Estimating software such as Causeway, Candy, or similar.

Strong numerical aptitude and commercial acumen.

Exceptional organizational and time-management skills with a proven ability to meet project deadlines and delegate effectively.

Clear and impactful communication skills, with the ability to tailor communication to different audiences.

A proactive problem solver who can anticipate issues, propose solutions, and highlight benefits.

Embraces change and actively contributes to continuous improvement initiatives.

Builds trust-based relationships and collaborates effectively within a team.

Demonstrates accountability and ownership in all endeavors.

If you're ready to take on a challenging yet rewarding role, where your expertise will be valued and your contributions will make a difference, we invite you to apply for the Lead Estimator position at Carey Group. Join us in shaping the future of construction excellence. Apply now!

What you will be doing:

Thoroughly examine incoming tenders to assess risks, identify opportunities, and propose value engineering solutions for both internal and client projects.

Demonstrate exceptional leadership by actively engaging, coaching, and mentoring team members to enhance their performance and capabilities.

Champion the continuous improvement of established procedures, systems, and standards to ensure operational excellence.

Utilize your expertise to calculate budgets from first principles, including material, labor, plant, and equipment assessments, and analyze subcontractor and supplier quotations.

Oversee the review of rates and bills of quantities produced by estimators and assistant estimators.

Conduct detailed measurements and quantity take-offs from drawings, producing accurate bills of quantities.

Source, review, and analyze subcontractor and material quotations to ensure competitiveness and quality.

Identify, analyze, and review potential value engineering solutions to optimize project outcomes.

Assess project risks and opportunities, integrating them into estimates using a comprehensive risk and opportunity register.

Prepare tender reports and actively participate in bid, tender review, and adjudication/settlement meetings with Estimating and Operational leads.

Engage in client meetings, providing expert insight and guidance throughout the tender process.

Our story starts in 1969 with three brothers and a van.

John, Tom and Pat Carey moved to London from Ireland and started a groundworks contracting company in London called PJ Carey Plant Hire (Oval) Ltd.

Their aspirations at the time were reflective of the values of the Carey Group today – to care about everything they did, to act with humility in all interactions, to be passionate about their work and be authentic at all times.

The Carey Group remains a family-owned construction business, operating across the UK and Ireland. Their goal at the time was to grow to around 50 operatives and provide quality, safe work so that they and their employees could provide for their families and get safe home every day. Through hard work and sticking to their values and their word, this was certainly achieved....and some.

Throughout the years, we have remained committed to delivering on our promises, respecting our clients, offering innovative solutions and producing the highest-quality work in safe environments. These are the core principles set by our Founders, the ones we have never wavered from and they help us to fulfil our ultimate vision to be the most trusted and socially responsible construction company, that people are proud to work with.

Our strong approach is underpinned by robust financial management, continuous investment in our people, specialist equipment and strategic assets and our long-standing culture of teamwork – we want to create the very best environments for our people.

We care about our people and our partners and how we work with them, ensuring we do our best by them. Ultimately, we care about our impact on the world around us and the communities that we proudly help to shape.
