Company: Parkinson Gray Associates

Location: Cookridge

Category: construction-and-extraction

Our Client is an established building services engineering consultancy located in Leeds, facilitating innovative schemes throughout each market sector. With a collective goal to provide cost effective, low carbon and sustainable buildings utilising the latest industry technology, they proudly deliver affordable and commercially smart buildings which promote energy efficiency and renewable products.

With a project portfolio of MEP schemes ranging from £500k up to £30m, they offer expertise and capacity to undertake design works from concept, through development, via delivery on site to completion and handover. Regular repeat custom includes strong alliances with major national contractors, end users and developers, presenting a diverse and challenging workload any Engineer would enjoy particularly across commercial, education and residential.

Succession planning is an important part of any business, facilitating the development of those already within the company, whilst also attracting new talent with important experience and fresh impetus. With the pending retirement of a founding member of the leadership team to manage over the coming months, a Lead Mechanical Engineer is required to help fill big shoes. The successful candidate will likely be working at Principal, Associate or Associate Director level within a Consultancy, alternatively Principal/Design Manager within a Contractor, heavily seasoned in successfully managing HVAC design projects to time and cost, whilst providing a first class client facing service that installs total confidence.

Applications are invited from talented and commercially astute Mechanical Building Services Design Engineers who understand the importance of producing doing things properly first time, providing accurate design work and within agreed timescales. Working knowledge of key industry software such as Hevacomp and AutoCAD is essential.

In return for your hard work and results you can expect to be well rewarded and compensated for your time, with significant career opportunities also available as the business undergoes expansion.
