I am currently working with an Abingdon-based semiconductor company that focuses on 3D Metrology technology.

You will have the opportunity to work in a technology-based sector where you will be working in a leading company within the semiconductor industry.

They are looking for a Mechanical Design Engineer to join their Engineering team where the prime function of the role is to create and maintain mechanical designs.

What is required for an exceptional Mechanical Design Engineer?

Make designs in 3D using SolidWorks.

Have high ability with EPDM.

Make calculations to verify mechanical performance.

Create drawings and prepare bills of materials.

Support the initial build process and update designs.

If you are a Mechanical Design Engineer looking for a new opportunity within a Semiconductor company, please apply to learn more.
