Job Description

Do you want to work for a highly successful manufacturer who are at the top of their game and still rapidly improving?

My client are an incredibly renowned and reputable manufacturing company who are seeking a process engineer to join their team to look after several upcoming exciting projects. With well established partnerships with some of the UK's most established brands, they are a titan within their respective market and with recent improvements, they are continuing their expansion into the market.

Despite their commercial success, they have remained a close tight knit group of people. They make it their priority to ensure all members of staff are well looked after and it is this culture that has played a pivotal role in their commercial as well as cultural success.

Here is a brief overview of the role:

Title:

Process Engineer
