Senior Hydrogeologist

We're looking for a Senior Hydrogeologist to join our team in Bristol. By joining RPS, you will become part of a leading global multi-disciplinary consultancy. We specialise in all areas of the built and natural environment, shaping the future of our environmental, social and economic landscapes

Your role

Project delivery and management of groundwater related inputs.

Managing / supporting site works.

Supervising junior technical staff.

Designing appropriate field studies and intrusive investigations to deliver client commercial and regulatory requirements.

Constructing and developing Hydrogeological Conceptual Models.

Who we're looking for

Numeracy and technical writing fluency

Ability to manage and interpret geo-environmental/hydrogeological datasets

Knowledge of regulatory framework for water resources and contaminated land regimes

Hydrogeological process conceptual understanding

What's in it for you

We're an accredited training provider – from entry level to master's degree level professional qualifications in leadership & management and executive coaching & mentoring, we support learning and development for everyone.

A personal development plan and a transparent career pathway puts you in the driving seat of your career and you'll be supported as far as you want to go.

We encourage and value different ideas, perspectives, and styles of thinking. We need a mix of experiences and skills to develop the most innovative ideas. We respect one another and recognise the potential and contribution of everyone. You'll be joining a diverse community and a company that puts its people first and prioritises their wellbeing.

We understand the need to work flexibly, with agile offices and hybrid working offered as standard, we're happy to talk about flexible working. This is a workplace that works for you.

A career here is far from ordinary. Here you're not a number, you're part of the solution
