Senior Trainer (Project Management)

UK wide (Hybrid/remote)

Full time/Permanent

Are you a Project Management Trainer looking for that next step? Or maybe you're an established Project Manager looking for a rewarding career change in training?

If you want to be part of a genuinely supportive and professional environment, teaching what you are most passionate about, then QA could be the company you're looking to join! We're the UK's leading IT digital skills provider – experts in upskilling, reskilling and other talent needs required by established public sector organisations, enterprises, and higher education universities!

Needing flexible hours and a good work-life balance? Don't worry – we offer that too!

What's my purpose?

When you join QA, your pivotal role will be to simply deliver high quality courses to our learners! This could be in a classroom or virtual setting, but we need enthusiasm and interactive courses to help get the best out of those we're teaching!

What responsibilities would I have?

You'll be delivering core PPM courses to practitioner level – by this we mean PRINCE2, APM PMQ and others!

You'll support us with customization of learning topics or programmes, offering your subject level expertise and utilising it

You'll contribute to QA's success by reviewing learner evaluations and finding areas for improvement

You will be providing learners with post-course support through various avenues of contact where necessary

Like with most roles, you'll need to undertake some administrative tasks too!

What do I need to apply and succeed?

You'll be teaching project management courses, so we'd ask you have a PRINCE2 or APM PMQ qualification

You'll be great in this role if you have a technical background in project management – You'll have been a Project Manager at one point in your career!

Although it would be perfect if you had training experience already, we're all about the desire to succeed so this is preferred but not essential by any means!
