SENIOR SOFTWARE DEVELOPER C#

Full Time

Tettang

With Professional Experience

Permanent Contract

We're an international software company at the forefront of imagining the future of digital security. Avira's award-winning products and technology protect over 500 million users in the connected world.

What makes us special? First and foremost – it's the authentic people at Avira. We have a great community feeling that fosters your uniqueness and offers the space to reflect, the feedback to grow, and the freedom to innovate.

The Challenge

You will join at a very interesting moment since we are completely rebuilding the look and feel of the Avira products on Windows. Instead of having many separate products installed, in the future, we will offer a well-integrated solution with a unique user experience. You will work closely together with other developers to define the architecture of the new solution, implement functionality using the latest methodologies, write automated tests, analyze customer data and run experiments. You will keep a good connection to other people around the agile development team, like Product Manager, Designers and Data Analyst to influence possible future features.

The Team

We are an agile development team with experienced software engineers which is part of the Windows Consumer Suites business unit. Our cross-functional unit of 30 passionate employees is responsible for developing and marketing Avira's core offerings on the Windows platform.

What you will do

With your expertise, you will exert a strong influence on decisions, methods of approach and results in the team.

Lay the technological foundation for the global success of our products

Collaborate with the product owner, designers, UX researcher and localization engineers to find the best technical solutions and give feedback about the technical feasibility of new feature requests

Develop high-quality and highly-secure Windows desktop applications using modern methods in C#, while working in an agile scrum team to leverage the power of a self-responsible and multi-skilled team

Preferred qualifications

Strong knowledge in developing with C#

Following SOLID principles

Good understanding of multithreading concepts

Experience in developing modern user interfaces with WPF

If you are looking for a culture that also encourages aspiration and professional excellence, get in touch with us and discover the Avira experience firsthand.

Update

Although there's a lot of disruption nowadays due to Covid-19, we at Avira are continuing to run our daily business activities so that we stay true to the promise to our customers - now even more than ever: Protecting people in the connected world. And we are doing this from the safeness of our own homes. Among other things, this means we are still hiring, but we have moved all our interviews online and all our colleagues are being onboarded remotely

So join us and you will be able to work from home until the danger is over.
